Most of us cannot remember the first time we heard the gospel story. Some of our earliest memories are of hearing Bible stories.

This film is about the reaction of adults in a Mouk tribal village who hear the gospel story in Papua New Guinea from some resourceful New Tribes Christian missionaries. As you view the first 18 minutes of this video, don't get caught up in how different the Mouk tribe's culture is from ours. Try to ignore the fact that their lifestyle is far removed from ours. Use the video to try to experience vicariously the hearing of the gospel for the very first time as an adult.

What was significant about the “chronological Bible teaching” method used by the Zooks?

Which Old Testament story seemed most pivotal?
