course web page: <http://home.snu.edu/~hculbert/theo.htm>

Description:

This course is a study of the underlying principles and theological presuppositions of the global Christian mission. It will attempt to help students unify and integrate a wide range of theological themes in and around the idea of missions.

Objectives:

By the end of this course students should be able to:

1. Articulate a biblical foundation for global mission from both the Old and New Testaments
2. Demonstrate an understanding of historic missions paradigms
3. Engage in discussion on the themes, issues and assumptions of various mission theologies, particularly as they apply to doing mission in the post-modern era
4. Describe various approaches to contextualization in a multi-cultural global context
5. Explain the strategic implications of missionary mandate for the 21st century seen holistically and in conversation with key texts on globalization, socio-political issues and current affairs

Textbooks:

1. Lesslie Newbigin, The Open Secret
1. Don Richardson, Eternity in Their Hearts
2. Aida and William David Spencer, The Global God

What do I have to do to pass this course?

1. Come to class. An important component of this course is what happens in the classroom: lectures, presentations, interaction and discussions. Absences will affect the course grade. Three tardies or early departures count as one absence.
2. Read the textbooks. On dates when reading is due, submit on Moodle a response of at least 250 words to what you read. On the first line of each report, indicate if you read 100%, 75%, 50% or 25% of the pages listed. In addition to your personal reflections, include one “test” question that covers what you think is significant material from that particular reading.
3. Interview of a pastor and two professors. Choose one of the following questions and ask that same question to a pastor and two SNU School of Theology and Ministry professors. Submit a report of their answers on Moodle.
Question choices:
 - (1) Are those who have never heard of Christ hopelessly lost?
 - (2) Is it arrogant for us to say that Jesus is the only way to salvation?
 - (3) What is, or should be the relationship between theology and culture?
4. Interview of someone of another religion. Interview someone of another religion (Jew, Muslim, Hindu, Sikh, Wicca, Buddhist) to get their view of major tenets of Christianity (authority of Bible, uniqueness of Christ, Trinitarian view of God, eventual eternal destiny of human beings). The interview subject needs to be someone who is a believer in a religious system rather than just an atheist or agnostic. Submit a 500-750 word report of your interview to Moodle. The last line of your Moodle post should contain the word count as reported by your word-processing software.
5. Post two substantive responses per week to what others have submitted on Moodle. These responses must be more than “I agree” or “Good reflection.” They must somehow carry forward a conversation.

6. Write an essay. 5-8 page well-researched essay on a missions theology topic of your choosing (a list of possibilities is given later in this syllabus). Your bibliography page must include a minimum of six sources. Such sources can include interviews you do on your topic with career missionaries. Students taking the course for graduate credit should write a graduate-level paper of 8-12 pages.
7. Do three biblical exegesis papers: Write 900-1200 word exegesis papers on biblical passages of your choosing which relate to world evangelism.

Further instructions will be available on Moodle.
8. Read and reflect on two periodical articles. Two periodical articles on the theology of missions must be read and a written reflection on each submitted on Moodle by the time of Exam #1. Note: These are not just any articles from the journals listed in the syllabus. The article must specifically deal with theology of missions topics. One purpose of the article reading is to give you a look at some possible essay topics.
9. Write reactions to videos shown in class or to guest speakers. .
10. Take the exams on time. There will be three unit exams and one final. The final exam will include material from questions used in the unit exams. Prior to each of the exams you will receive a study guide. Exams taken late will be reduced by one letter grade.

How will grades be figured?

3 exams @100	300
Pastor/professors interview report	50
Other religion interview report	50
Two periodical articles	50
Video/ guest speaker reactions	10 pts each
Text reading responses	10 pts each
Essay	100
3 exegesis papers @100	300
Moodle response posts – 2 per week at 10 pts per week
Attendance	100

Late assignments will receive a reduced grade of up to 50%. The required weekly response posts may not be made up. Exams taken late will be reduced by one letter grade.

24. The world evangelism implications of thinking about the church as a “community”
25. The gospel and social issues such as poverty, abuse, slavery and sexual exploitation
26. The Old Testament function of the priesthood and its implications for the missionary mandate
27. The Holy Spirit’s work and power in global evangelism
28. The passion for fulfilling what God wants as a motivation for missions
29. Theological shifts that have happened in missions thinking across the decades and centuries
30. Unpacking the promises to Abraham as they relate to world evangelism
31. Who should be our missionary model: Jesus (incarnationalism) or Paul (representationalism)?

Academic Services Available

If you need assistance with a learning, physical or psychological disability that may affect your academic progress, you are encouraged to contact the Academic Center for Excellence, Disability Services at #491-6694. Specialized services are also available for first generation (neither parent earned a bachelors degree), low-income, and international students. All students are encouraged to seek assistance from ACE, the Academic Center for Excellence (Learning Resource Center Room, Room 309).

Classroom Behavior

Proper in-class behavior is important to maximize group learning. Thus, talking during the lecture, texting on a cell phone, wearing headphones, game-playing or Internet-browsing, physical horseplay, and/or other disrespectful behavior is inappropriate. The instructor maintains the right, and merely on subjective grounds, to penalize a student's final grade up to one full letter grade for repeated instances of inappropriate behavior. The instructor maintains the right, in consultation with the Academic Affairs office, to drop a student from the course for behavior which degrades the learning environment.

Your mother doesn't clean our building. So, if you bring a soft drink or coffee to class, handle it carefully and clean up any spills. Do not leave cans, cups or other trash in or around your seat.
