MEN'S RECOVERY HOUSES

Each home is used to house four to six men who are in the recovery program. There are the usual types of requirements to enter the program: stop using and/or drinking, attend Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) meetings, work, curfew, etc.

The Recovery Houses also have a spiritual renewal program using spiritual and 12 Step programs to assist the men in their recovery from drugs and/or alcohol.

History and Purpose

Love Link Ministries began providing social services to the poor and homeless in 1991 and provides services to all people without regard to religion or race. Many of the clients struggle with alcohol and drug dependencies. A large percentage of the clients served are Native Americans.

The purposes of Love Link Ministries are:

- To initiate and support neighborhood development projects which include but are not limited to health services, transitional housing, emergency shelter, legal aid, and learning centers in the inner city of Oklahoma City;
- To give people the opportunity to work toward the solution of their own personal and community problems;
- To provide a structure through which government and private organizations can channel their resources into the development of projects, which will serve people who live in the inner city.
