MISSION PRIORITY ONE

Since the earliest days of NMI, achievement standards were set for both local churches and districts. From the Standard and Superior Societies (1924), to the Seven-Point Society (early 1950s), and to the Star Society (1956), the concept was changed to Mission Award (1976). In 2002, the achievement program was renamed Mission Priority One to reflect a church’s priority on missions.

The achievement goals are based on the four objectives of NMI (see Guidelines that follow). A record of a church’s participation in these four objectives should be kept throughout the year. The district will send a report form near the end of the church year for the local president to submit the church’s participation in these objectives.

An objective must have a design whereby it can be fulfilled—thus, the Mission Priority One program.
