

Theology of Missions -- Final Exam Study Guide

The exam will be given in Pop's Lounge in the Commons. Coffee or other drinks are on me!

1. Be able to define and distinguish between the two concepts of contextualization and syncretism which were dealt with in class lectures and discussions as well as being mentioned in the Spencers' book (p.107). Given a series of paragraph-long case study descriptions, be able to identify whether what is being described in each paragraph should be considered contextualization or syncretism.
2. Describe in essay form what for you has been the most significant issue or insight in this course.
3. Through what six ways does Tokunboh Adeyemo say that Africans perceive or come to understand God?
4. From the final page at the conclusion of the Spencers' book, know what the authors say is the core emphasis of chapter 4.
5. That concluding chapter has a summary listing of lessons learned for chapters 5-11. Know the listing of understandings and what each group has misunderstood or has neglected to learn about God.
6. Throughout the semester we've seen some videos and had some special speakers. Which video or special speaker had the most impact on you?
